

PABLO GARAIZAR SHORT NOTE

Pablo Garaizar holds a PhD in Computer Engineering, a M.Eng. in Networks and Systems Administration from the University of Deusto, and a B.A. in Psychology from the UNED. He is currently a Lecturer at the University of Deusto, where he teaches courses on Telecommunications, Computer Engineering, and the Honors Program on the Faculty of Engineering (Network Services, Networks II, Information Security and Protection, and Collaborative Environments). His publications mainly focus on new methodologies on Internet-based research, ICT and Education. During the past few years he has carried out his research on DeustoTech Learning and Cátedra Telefónica – Deusto. Other research interests include Web Programming, Computer Security, Computer Networks and Systems Administration.

